THE GOVERNOR'S BALL.

A Brilliant and Successful Affair—The Social Event of the Season.

Government House Ablaze With Wealth, Beauty and Fashion.

The ball and supper given by His Honor the Lieut. Governor and Mrs. Nelson at Cary Castle, Government House, on Wednesday night, and for which preparations had been in progress for many weeks back, passed off in a highly successful and satisfactory manner. From distant parts on the mainland, the Island and across the Sound came representatives of the elite of society circles there. The city contributed its usual quota of wealth, beauty and fashion. A large number of invitations had been issued and accepted. Fully three hundred and fifty guests were present last night to attest their appreciation of the kindness and hospitality of His Honor and his accomplished wife, both of whom are great favorites with the community here. Whilst a full private citizen Hugh Nelson was a general favorite, for he was one of the people, and with others had taken a prominent part in developing and building up the country. In the political arena he carried the good wishes of his fellows, all of whom were pleased to learn that he had been selected as the representative of Her Majesty in this province. It was felt that the honors appertaining to the office would rest easy on his shoulders as well as on those of his amiable and accomplished wife, and that in their hands the hospitality of Government House would be dispensed in a manner becoming the dignity and reputation of the position occupied by them. Well these exalted personages have redeemed the promises made by their friends and verified the predictions made by others. The gathering last night was the crowning proof of their popularity. The affair was undoubtedly the grandest society event which has yet taken place in Victoria. From the arrival of the first carriage with its occupants, shortly after 8 o'clock, until the last one took its departure, there was not the slightest hitch or friction; everything passed off in the most satisfactory manner, all of which is due to the excellent arrangements made and carried out by His Honor's secretary, Mr. Stanton.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the first set in the ball room was formed; it was the lancers, and comprised the most distinguished of the many prominent personages present. Thereafter, until midnight, the several dances on the list were gone through with by the merrymakers present. The music was by the band of Her Majesty's ship Triumph, under the leadership of Prof. Agina. It goes without saying when we state that seldom was such excellent strains listened to, or such inspiring dancing music heard. Notwithstanding the large number present, there appeared to be ample room and accommodation for all. Those who did not worship at the shrine of Terpsichore found ample enjoyment in other amusements. Throughout the entire evening His Honor and Mrs. Nelson were most assiduous in their efforts to make all happy, comfortable and feel quite at home. They appeared happy with themselves and delighted with the company of so many warm personal friends as surrounded them on this auspicious occasion. Their general conduct gained for them golden opinions from every one.

At midnight supper was announced. It was feared there would be a great jam here in consequence of the large attendance. The arrangements, carried out by Major E. G. Prior, acting with Mr. Stanton, obviated any difficulty in this respect. The spread was one in every way worthy the occasion. It was provided in abundance, and dispensed with corresponding liberality.

Major E. G. Prior acted as aide-de-camp to His Honor during the evening, and as is that gallant officer's wont, discharged the duties of the office to the satisfaction of all.

The costumes of the ladies were elegant. Never before in the history of Victoria did so many beautiful women assemble in one room. The brilliancy of the occasion was largely enhanced by the appearance in uniform of so many of the military, whose garments found a marked contrast to the sombre attire of the majority of the gentlemen present. Following is a partial description of the ladies present and the costumes worn by them:

CABLE NEWS.

SUICIDED.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Geo. Bay, an accomplice of Gen. D'Andlan in the sale of decorations, committed suicide last night to avoid arrest.

O'BRIEN IN GAOL.

DUBLIN, Nov. 3.—O'Brien has given warning to the governor of Tullamore gaol that he will refuse to do menial offices as a mere prison duty of association with criminals.

TERRIFIC GALE.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A terrific gale prevailed on the English channel throughout the night. Two vessels were driven ashore in Pegwell bay.

BIG STRIKE.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 3.—Sixteen hundred miners have struck in Betrintge district. A renewal of rioting is feared.

THE CARLTON CLUB EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—An attempt was made this afternoon to blow up the Carlton club. The explosion took place in the basement, and blew out all the first floor windows, and injured four persons. The Carlton club is in Pall Mall and is considered the most beautiful club house in London. Its members include most members of the House of Lords and Commons. The streets are filled with excited people, and the police are driving away all from the ruins.

CAUSED BY GAS.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—There was a great panic in Pall Mall this afternoon, occasioned by a loud explosion at the tory Carlton Club. The streets had been filled during the afternoon with socialists parading, and when the news was first sent out to London it was believed that an attempt had been made to blow up this club house with dynamite. The explosion was caused by gas. Four workmen who were engaged in repairing the club house were injured.

HON. E. BLAKE IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Nov. 2.—Hon. Edward Blake, ex-minister of the Canadian cabinet, in a speech at Glensharrald, the scene of the evictions from the estate of the Rev. John Delmage, a rich landlord of the county Limerick, said the evictions enforced by Delmage were shameful in every detail. It was a burning shame and humiliation he said, to find a man living in luxury while his tenants were in such misery, such as should invoke God's curse upon its author. He earnestly advised his hearers to combine against the landlords, declaring they had everything to justify them in that course in the sight of God and man.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S HEALTH.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—It is asserted in competent financial circles, both here and in Berlin, that while the Emperor of Germany may possibly recover from his present attack sufficiently to enable him to leave his bed for a few hours each day his condition is such as to warrant the assumption that he will never regain his full health. This statement, of course, will be used for stock-jobbing purposes, but well informed persons in other circles profess to have information inducing the belief that the Kaiser is suffering his last illness and scouts the suggestion that the stories in circulation have no other foundation than a desire of their authors to influence prices. The Berlin Bourse, though not agitated is still very sensitive, owing to the difficulty of obtaining palace information as to the Emperor's condition and is likely any time to assume panic features.

BOULOGNE, Nov. 3.—Fifty-nine fishermen have been missing since the gale. Seven bodies lashed together have been washed ashore at Etables.

A NIHILISTIC PLOT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—Another Nihilistic plot has been discovered. The headquarters of the conspirators are in the house of an apothecary. The police raided the house and made several arrests. They found a number of bombs.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Demand For Chamberlain's Recall—London Explosion.

Wholesale Poisoning in Vicksburg—A French Suicide.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 3.—There were seven new cases of yellow fever at Tampa and two deaths during the twenty-four hours ending last night. There is no yellow fever in the state outside of Tampa.

A CHEROKEE WAR.

VINITA, Indian Territory, Nov. 3.—A special messenger from Tarlequah reports that the greatest excitement prevails at the capitol of the Cherokee nation. Half of the inhabitants of the city have fled for refuge from impending war, which will probably begin on Monday. The dispute is over an election of a chief of the Cherokee tribe.

BONDS AUTHORIZED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—At a special meeting of the preferred stockholders of the Northern Pacific Railroad, the proposition of the management to remove the restrictions against issuing new bonds was accepted and the directors were authorized by a vote of 340,000 out of a total issue of 380,000 shares to issue new bonds not exceeding $12,000,000, and bearing interest of not more than 6 per cent. per annum.

THE EMBRACERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—In the trial of Frank Northey for embracing to-day a reporter testified that he had been sent to see Northey regarding his suit against Morrow. Witness went on to state that Northey told him that Morrow had sent for him and asked him to see juror Woods in the Wright case and get a verdict of less than $2,000.

NEGRO STRIKERS.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—At present over ten thousand negro laborers are on strike. White men are working on the sugar plantations, holding that their demands were unjust, and refusing to join them. The planters are determined to introduce new laborers, and a large number of warrants for the eviction of the strikers have been served. Several companies of state militia are under arms and will go to the assistance of the sheriffs and officers if they are resisted when serving the warrants. Evictions will begin to-day.

THE BENHAYON MYSTERY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—William Winter, an artist of this city, has made the most startling disclosure in the Benhayon mystery. Its tendency is to throw light on Dimmig, the book agent's connection with Dr. Bowers. Dimmig, according to Winter's positive statement, wore diamonds on an evening not long prior to Benhayon's death, and his appearance attracted so much comment that he retorted in answer to some jocular talk that he expected thirteen more soon and enough money to buy a sloop. A few days later he repeated to Winter, according to the statement, substantially the same remark. Dimmig denies this and he even denies he knew Winter. The latter's testimony is, however, explicit, and full as to details. It comes with redoubled appositeness as Winter held it back as long as he could, possibly from a mistaken desire not to be connected with the case in any manner. The value of the information may be judged from the fact that Dr. Bowers has a large number of diamonds, or what were supposed to be diamonds, but which later were ascertained to be paste and imitation. The theory suggested from Winter's statement is that he obtained his diamonds from Dr. Bowers, as a reward for some service actually performed or soon to be performed.

ATTACHMENTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Attachments to the amount of $20,000 were granted today by Judge Donohue in three suits brought against Ackerman Bros., of San Francisco.

FIRE IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—A fire occurred today in the rooms of the celebrated Chicago Club of this city. The building adjoins the famous Palmer House. The loss is only $25,000.

LOVE AND SUICIDE.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 3.—James Cormer committed suicide this morning by taking strychnine. He was despondent over a love affair. Aged 26 years.

A BETRAYER SHOT.

CHEYENNE, Wy. Ter., Nov. 3.—At Douglas, Albany County, yesterday, Harvey King, a railroad man, shot and instantly killed J. P. Bowman, well-driller. King claimed that Bowman betrayed his wife three years ago. There is talk of lynching the murderer.

JEFF DAVIS' HEALTH.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 3.—Jefferson Davis' condition was indeed alarming up till this morning, when he arose considerably improved. The astonishing change is attributed by his family to his remarkable power and nerve. Although completely exhausted yesterday, he is able to be about the house and enjoys light nourishment. If the family decides on starting home to-morrow morning, physicians will accompany them.

HEAVY FAILURE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—The liabilities of Ackerman Bros., wholesale crockery dealers, who were attached yesterday, are stated to be $400,000; assets exceed the liabilities.

VERY LIKE A WHALE.

Advices this morning from Alaska state that the schooner Grace, the English ship, has disappeared. She was chartered by the District Court to convey the seized seal skins from Unnalaska to Sitka. It is feared she has decamped with her valuable load worth $100,000. At the time the Grace was chartered Sitka harbor was full of American ships, the captains of which protested against the employment of a foreign vessel.

FATAL POISONING.

VICKSBURG, Nov. 3.—Of the persons who were poisoned at George C. King's party last evening the following have since died: Wife of Zicke Hill and six children (colored), A. Ford and six children (white), Mrs. Louis King and child, one of the Dunham boys, Bruce Speers and Hilliard Butler, wife and children. It is thought that the cook is the guilty one, as she is dangerously ill herself and one of her two children is dead. The doctor and others are busily engaged in making an inquiry into the case.

FIFTEEN FIRE DAMP.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—An explosion of fire damp occurred this morning in a lead mine at Matlock, County of Derby. Twenty-five men were in the pit at the time. Two dead bodies already have been removed.

MR. TURNER'S POSITION.

We confess to a feeling of admiration for Hon. J. H. TURNER, notwithstanding the unfortunate position into which an excessive love for "religious liberty" has placed him. As a citizen, as a member of parliament, and as a sworn adviser of the crown, his first duty was to the country that gave him a living and to the people who elevated him to a position which every person imagined he was eminently qualified to adorn. Treason may be odious but the traitor is frequently a most lovable and popular character, and so although we hate the crime committed by our Finance Minister, when he recommended the Metlakahtlans to seek that civil and religious liberty—denied them under the government of which he was a member—in "the land of the free," we have a lingering admiration for the criminal. He is a gentleman of more than average intelligence, possessing to a considerable extent the confidence of the mercantile community, and is ambitious to be ranked as a statesman. At the very threshold of an active political career, it is unfortunate, it is true, that a long suppressed feeling of hostility to the land of his birth should find expression in a manner offensive to every true Briton; but it is infinitely better that his real sentiments should be proclaimed—even if they verge on disloyalty—rather than that the people be deceived by placing confidence in the position rather than in the man. Mr. Turner is to be admired for the coolness with which he can bear contumely, and the callousness displayed when he is subjected to the jibes and sneers of an outraged community. For several weeks he has been the laughing-stock of Victoria. Since the publication of his certificate to Mr. DUNCAN, he has been a butt of ridicule for his friends and an object of pity to his enemies. But he has borne it all with the resignation of a martyr, convinced that he has only done his duty. We admire him, also, because, knowing that his views must be unpopular, he was not afraid to make them public. He had the courage of his convictions and dared—notwithstanding he was a recipient of public money for official duties—to conspire against the state and people whose servant he was. For this evidence of courage we admire Mr. TURNER, although the "knavish trick" he played with Senator MACDONALD has tarnished the name of Englishman and sullied the reputation of a public man.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

A feeling prevails in Gladstone-Liberal circles that the fishery commission will break down or else that its work will be rejected by the Senate, the dispute in either event being left in a very unsatisfactory position for Canada as well as for England.

The Legislative Council of Hongkong has voted the sum of $25,000 towards the celebration and commemoration of Her Majesty's Jubilee, which took place there on the 9th ult. The Colonial Secretary, in proposing the vote, said the community had resolved that their celebration, if somewhat late, should not be less hearty.

The Brant Review would like to see. William Paterson, member for South Brant, placed in command of the Liberal party of Canada. His abilities, his high personal character, his parliamentary experience, his universal popularity, combine to fit him for a position which by common consent needs just such qualifications in the occupant as he markedly possesses.

A man can fish on Sunday in Ontario, but not in Quebec. The reason is that the order-in-council recently published in the Canadian Gazette was intended to give better protection to the salmon, and the order was confined to fishing in "non-tidal waters frequented by salmon." As there are no "non-tidal waters frequented by salmon" in Ontario, the angler from that province can try a cast every day in the week. But the odd part of it is that the majority of the people of Quebec have no objection to fishing on Sunday, and the majority of the people of Ontario have. There is something like cross purposes in that.

Commercial Union has taken such a strong hold of the people of Nova Scotia that the Postmaster-General, in addressing his constituents the other day, urged that if Sir Charles Tupper is not re-elected the chances of gaining freedom of trade will be greatly lessened. "Mr. McLelan," according to a contemporary, "is said to have made a great point when he said that the men who were shouting themselves hoarse for extended trade relations with the United States were moving heaven and earth to defeat Sir Charles Tupper, who, as Canadian Commissioner, would do all he could to secure those extended trade relations."

AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

Opinion Expressed by An Intelligent Resident of that Country.

The Possibilities of Trade Between the Orient and Canada.

Mr. H. J. Carson Woods, Sydney, Australia, arrived in Victoria via the C. P. R. on Tuesday night from London, England, en route for his home. This gentleman has resided in that colony for 18 years, and is therefore in a position to state something authentic regarding the trade, commerce and possibilities of an interchange of products between our cousins in the antipodes and the Canadians. Further, he has been engaged in commerce for several years, having been a prominent business man in Quebec from 1860 to 1870, where he is still interested as a property owner. Mr. Alex. Woods, lately an Alderman in Winnipeg, and now the Canadian Trade Commissioner in the Australian Colonies, is a brother of his. Mr. Woods informs THE TIMES that the population of the Australian Colonies is in the neighborhood of three and a half millions, and rapidly increasing. As an instance of the rapid development going on in that country, he states that eighteen years ago there was but one steamer per month from Britain, that of the P. & O. line, to the Australian colonies; whilst now the regular liners were four, running fortnightly, viz., the P. & O. service, the Orient Co., the Messageries Maritime Line, and the German Lloyds, besides numerous subsidiary lines running daily from all parts of the world.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE.

So soon as Mr. Woods realized that the scheme of the Canadian Pacific was certain to be completed, he commenced an agitation in Australia for direct connections with the British Columbia terminus of that line. He interviewed the members of the governments of New South Wales and Queensland, urging them to give a subsidy. He found, however, that their knowledge of the route was very meager, the belief prevailing that the country was one entirely enveloped in snow and ice; and consequently valueless as a mail route. This feeling was fostered by the agents of competing lines. In 1881-2 he paid Canada a visit, interviewing the then Finance Minister, Sir Leonard Tilley, who received him most cordially, and expressed his willingness to advise his colleagues to grant a subsidy to an Australian line conditionally, however, that the Australians would supplement the amount. On his return to Australia Mr. Woods saw the Colonial Treasurer, the Hon. George R. Dibbs, who expressed himself as satisfied with the superiority of the Canadian route, and referred him to the Hon. Mr. Norton, Postmaster-General, who, after having been convinced by Mr. Woods of the superiority of the Canadian route, said that the policy of the government was hostile to subsidies, but he could, at once, guarantee a paying rate on every pound of mail matter sent, as outside the mail considerations he was satisfied that having an alternative route through British possessions it would prove of great advantage to the Empire, and especially the Australian colonies.

SIR JULIUS VOGEL.

About the time of the completion of the C. P. R., Sir Julius Vogel, Treasurer of New Zealand, offered to place the present line running from San Francisco to that colony on the Canadian Pacific route, and grant the present subsidy of £70,000, if the Canadian Pacific Railway Company would guarantee a rapid mail service. But, after much cabling, the replies received were that not having run the line for a winter they were afraid to undertake such a rapid mail service as his conditions called for. Mr. Woods, being one with those who believe in the illimitable possibilities of the future, never relaxed in his efforts. He ultimately succeeded in inducing the Canadian Government to send a competent person to the colonies as a trade representative. The appointment was made in 1885, and Mr. Woods is now busily at work.

A SPLENDID FLEET ON THE BRITISH COLUMBIA-AUSTRALIA ROUTE.

As to direct connections between this province and Sydney, touching at Honolulu, Fiji, Samoa and Brisbane, Mr. Woods, during a late visit to Montreal, had repeated interviews with Sir George Stephen, Bart., and Mr. W. C. VanHorne, by whom he was assured that the scheme, although dormant for the present, was certain to be carried out at a no distant date, they having decided upon putting on that route the swiftest boats afloat, having a minimum speed of 18 knots an hour. These vessels would have and their appointments of the most excellent description. Mr. Woods is now confident that in a couple of years at the furthest the vessels will be well under way if not in actual operation on the Orient and Occidental route.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF TRADE.

As to the possibilities of trade Mr. Woods says that the Colonies desire all the products of Canada, whilst the Dominion in turn wants the famous Australian wool for the woollen factories, the trade of which is already of considerable magnitude. Getting this wool and mixing it with the Canadian product would give the industry a stimulus in Canada such as few would really realize. In addition to wool there are other products such as sugar, coffee, spices, &c., all of which are used in considerable quantities on this coast. The passenger traffic would undoubtedly be a large one. The inhabitants of Australia as already reported number over three and a half millions. These are the richest people in the world according to proportion.

THE FAME OF VICTORIA

as a great sanitarium has reached that country. Australians would flock here in great numbers, anxious to escape the heat of the summer and recruit. Further they were consumers, manufactured practically nothing, and were anxious to open up a trade with Canada. Victoria, in Mr. Woods' estimation, must become a city of vast proportions when such a vast fleet of steamers is placed on the Australian route. For our manufactures the Australians would exchange the natural products of that country. Already 90 per cent. of the imports into Australia were from the Pacific coast, consisting of canned fruits, fish, manufactured lumber, and other commodities. In brief, Mr. Woods is convinced that whilst the trade to be done is a large one, capable of indefinite expansion, and sustaining many manufactures in British Columbia, it is one that must be catered for and looked after. It lies at our very doors, and if neglected by Canadians will be taken up by others. He thinks no time is to be lost in this respect, for already the Americans, ever on the alert to increase their trade connections, are sending representatives to that country with the view of spying out the land.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

In reference to the Pacific cable Mr Woods asserts that negotiations are now in progress which will ensure its completion at an early date. In conversation with Sir Alex. Stewart, the representative to the Colonial conference shortly before leaving Australia, he was assured that the hitches then existing would be adjusted and the work proceeded with. He is of the opinion that the Australian Government will grant very substantial aid to the scheme. Mr. Sandford Fleming is very sanguine of the consummation of the enterprise at an early date. Negotiations are in progress for the chartering of a vessel to indicate the route to be taken in laying the cable.

Mr. Woods does not observe much change in the old portion of Eastern Canada. In the west it is different. He returns to his adopted country to-morrow morning after a very favorable impression of this country, the Canadian Pacific Railway and all other matters appertaining thereto. He is a genial, well-informed gentleman, familiar with the geography of the world, as well as its trade and commerce. To him THE TIMES is indebted for the valuable information imparted and laid before our readers to-day.

IRISH EVICTIONS.

Pelting Officers with Mud—An M. P. Protests.

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—The evictions proceed on Lord Massereene's estate, with the usual formulated attack and defense, and mercilessly enforced or courageously resisted on either side. An incident occurred yesterday which will illustrate the temper with which the authorities still proceed. At one period of the bold defense, the people outside cheered.

Captain Keogh, who was in command, was heard to say: "If there be any further demonstrations of this kind I will clear the place immediately."

At this point the feelings of an old woman on the roadside found vent. Grabbing a handful of mud, she flung it at Matthews, a bailiff, who was making defiant demonstrations to the crowd. The woman, excited as she was, missed her aim and the mud struck Lieutenant Lonfield, who calmly wiped off his coat.

Captain Keogh did not take the matter so calmly. Lifting his stick he addressed the crowd in an excited manner:

"I warned you this morning that I will stand no trifling. If there be any interference I will put an end to it at once. A stone has been thrown."

"It was not a stone, it was mud," said the old woman, showing her besmeared hand.

Two policemen immediately arrested her, and one pulled out a note-book and proceeded to take her name, but Captain Keogh continued his speech, growing more excited as he went on.

"I intend to have no more of this, if the crowd do not disperse I will have the place cleared, and to avoid delay I will read the Riot Act."

Mr. Gill, M. P., said: "Surely you do not mean to read the Riot Act because an old woman, whom you have in custody, has thrown a handful of mud?"

Captain Keogh replied: "I will take no orders from you. I don't recognize you as having any authority here."

"I have a better right to be here than you have," replied Gill, "as you and your likes will learn to your cost before long. This is perfectly atrocious."

Captain Keogh proceeded to read the Riot Act with great pomposity, holding off his hat as he did so. When he came to "God Save the Queen" a voice shouted "God Save Ireland," on which the people cheered loudly.—"Disperse now, every one of you. Every man who remains here after this is a felon in the eyes of the law." The captain walked off pompously and the people laughed heartily at the ill-tempered demonstration which he was making. The house of Paul Tiernan, at Bloomfield, was next visited, and a double cordon of police was drawn across the gateway. As Mr. Gill was about making his way into the house Inspector Seymour, who had been receiving orders from Captain Keogh, ran up and said: "We cannot let you pass." "I am a member of Parliament," said Mr. Gill, "and I insist on my right to be present."

Inspector Seymour thereupon went back to Captain Keogh and returned immediately, saying: "I am very sorry, Mr. Gill, but my orders are peremptory, not to let you pass. We can admit no one but representatives of the press."

Mr. Gill said, "That is a curious distinction, admitting the representatives of the press and excluding the representatives of the people. From whom have you these orders?"

"From Captain Keogh."

"Captain Keogh will hear more of this," said Mr. Gill.

The door was barricaded with bushes tied together with a chain. Some volumes of white smoke which were detected rising through the apertures warned the Emergency Men that resistance might be offered. An entrance was effected through the window, and Patrick Tiernan, son of the tenant, was the only person found inside. He offered no further resistance, and the eviction was completed.

Patrick Meade, a sub-tenant, with his wife and five little children, was then thrown out in the roadside.

Lady Anne Blunt is just now the heroic of the hour. Being the granddaughter of Lord Byron, she naturally would excite attention under any circumstances, but much more under the present. The Examiner correspondent heard an old woman say:

"Bless her. Sure, an' she's only doing for ould Ireland weat her noble granddad tried to do for the Greeks, in fighting the nasty Turks; an' isn't Balfour worse than a Sultan?"

A bombshell has fallen in the Baptist community by the withdrawal of Mr. Spurgeon from their union. Spurgeon's dissatisfaction at the lax theology of many of his brother ministers has been no secret. He holds fast to the rigid tenets of his church, and deems any relaxation a wrong to the church and Christianity itself. Great efforts have been made to smooth his susceptibility and quiet his scruples, but his conscience refused to be silenced. His withdrawal from the Baptist Union will not in any way affect his position in his own church, where he preaches such doctrines as he pleases unchallenged. He expresses the desire that the day will come when all true Christians may be united in one communion larger than any existing sects can provide for. This wish meets with a sympathetic response from many outside of Spurgeon's church. Public approval follows his course, but whether it did or did not makes no difference to Spurgeon, who would go to the stake to-morrow for what he believes to be right.

The Earl of Lytton, appointed to succeed Lord Lyons as British ambassador at Paris, is the son of the famous novelist, Bulwer Lytton, and under the nom de plume of Owen Meredith has published better poetry than his dead father ever wrote. His last public office was that of Governor-General of India, to which he succeeded on the recall of the Earl of Ripon. Lord Lyons, who retires to accept an earldom, served as British Minister at Washington during the civil war and won the respect and friendship of Lincoln's administration for his good sense, ability, moderation and honorable action.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored.—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—P. Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Hemmenway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but give me increased vigor, and restored my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

3. It shall not be lawful to devote any part of the city revenue in surveying, grading or gravelling or in laying sidewalks along the line of any street not already accepted or taken over by a vote of this Council that shall be of less width than sixty feet from the line fence on either side thereof.

4. This By-Law shall not apply to any street accepted or taken over by the city at the date of the passing of this By-Law. oct19

THE STAFF OF LIFE.

HOW BREAD IS MADE IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Thomas Stevens Tells of Bread He Has Eaten in Various Countries During His Famous Bicycle Tour in Asiatic Countries.

The fact is there are no two countries in the world where the people make and eat the same kind of bread. This seems a rather broad assertion to make, but is nevertheless a true one. Even in such closely kindred countries as England and America there exists a decided difference of opinion in regard to the consumption of this staple article of food. The American custom of eating biscuits hot as they can be handled from the oven is regarded by John Bull, Esq., with even a greater measure of disfavor than that of swallowing big tumblers of ice water at our meals. Mr. Bull, he of the cellarful of fine old crusted port, the daily round of roast beef, carrots, mince pie and Gorgonzola cheese, thinks the thinness, the nervousness and the dyspepsia of his Cousin Jonathan comes largely from these twin evils of hot bread and ice cold water.

In France the ordinary loaf assumes the proportions of a roll the size of a man's forearm, and four feet long. In any French village, about meal times, grown people and children may be seen walking sedately along the streets with a four foot stick of bread thrust under each arm. A careless youngster sometimes forgets himself to the extent of letting the hindmost end of the stick trail along the ground.

Not until one gets down to the principalities of the Balkan peninsula does any really noteworthy innovation occur. Here one finds the medium between Asiatic and European methods of making bread. The medium, however, is far from being a happy one; no more execrable bread is to be found the whole world round than is served up to a traveler at the wayside mehanas of Bulgaria. Besides being villainously heavy and well nigh black, it is coarse and repulsive, almost as wet saw dust to the palate; sand, moreover, enters very largely into its composition from carelessness in handling and milling the wheat.

This style of bread confronts the disgusted European traveler for the first 200 miles beyond the Bosphorus, until one gets pretty well out of the Greek and Bulgarian settlements in western Apatolia, where another decided change is experienced. Here we come suddenly into the realm of the simon pure unleavened variety of Asia. Bread is now called ekmek, and takes the form of flat cakes or sheets about two feet in diameter and the thickness of ordinary blotting paper. The necessaries for the preparation of this ekmek are coarse wheat flour, water, mixing trough, rolling pin, a large thin griddle and a slow burning substance called tezek for a fire. Taking these simple ingredients outside the house early in the morning, the Turkish or Armenian female kindles the fire, mixes the dough, rolls it out, bakes it and stacks enough of it up to serve her household for the day. When fresh and warm this bread is tough and cloggy; a few days later it loses something of its clogginess, but retains its toughness, and as it advances in age is becomes brittle and hard. It is as indestructible, healthful and useful an article of food as the hard tack issued to the ancient mariner and the old man of the sea.

In Asia Minor, as in all other countries, however, the luxurious requirements of city bred people demand some kind of improvement on the ways and methods of country bumpkins, camel drivers and goat herds. Therefore, in gratification of their epicurean tastes, the ingenious oriental baker has conceived and prepared little hoops or rings of bread about the size of the rope quoits aboard an Atlantic steamer. These novel preparations are made of finer and whiter flour than the ekmek, and are rendered light and aristocratic by the addition of sour dough or other leavening substance.

This sort of bread prevails throughout the cities of Asia Minor, and the use of ekmek extends even among the peasantry in western Persia as far as Tabreez. Here the staff of life undergoes another transformation, and in many respects a change for the better. The nune of the Persian city bazars is really very excellent bread, most Europeans giving it preference over every other kind they are acquainted with. Nune is turned out for proper consumption and approval in the forms of flat cakes a foot broad and three to four feet long. The baker takes a lump of dough of the proper size and rolls it dexterously into the proper shape and thickness on his bare forearm. He then flips a light shower of water over its surface, and with a masterly toss spreads it over a bed of heated pebbles.

Contact with the almost redhot pebbles quickly converts it into a cake of nicely browned indentations and spongy risings, that render it almost as light as if leavened with yeast. The peasantry of eastern Persia and Khorassan make a coarse imitation of this same form of bread, which is also very palatable and wholesome when eaten fresh. The cakes are smaller and thicker than those of the city baker; and their baking apparatus is altogether different. The oven is a huge, upright earthenware jar. This is heated to the proper consistency by inserting live coals and covering up the top. The dough being patted out into a cake by the hands, the woman sprinkles it with water, dabs it against the inside wall of the jar and then quickly replaces the cover; in a few minutes the cake is nicely baked. In Afghanistan the people adopt the Persian methods of bread making, without possessing the same skill or exercising the same care and trouble in its preparation.—Thomas Stevens.

Life Saving Apparatus of Reindeer Hair.

A Norwegian engineer, Herr W. C. Moller, of Drammen, Norway, having had his attention drawn to the extreme buoyancy of reindeer hair, has succeeded in constructing various articles of this material for life saving at sea, with which some interesting experiments were recently made. The first life saving object tried was one which can be used on board ship as a chair, bedstead or couch, but which in case of need may be converted into a small boat. This apparatus was found capable of supporting three full grown men in the water, although only intended to bear two. Another object tried was a suit made entirely of reindeer hair, and covering the entire body except the face, and in which a man floated on the water without having to make the slightest movement. It was found perfectly impossible to dive in the dress. The third object tried was a doormat made of reindeer hair, and this supported a man easily, although he was dressed in full outdoor clothing. On comparing life belts made of reindeer hair with similar ones of cork, it was found that the former were much lighter than the latter, a very important advantage to an exhausted drowning person when he has to put it on in the water. Herr Moller's assertion that reindeer hair is capable of supporting a weight ten times its own was fully borne out by these experiments. It should be pointed out that jackets, belts, etc., made of reindeer hair are soft and pliable, and that they impart a good deal of warmth.—London Iron.

Fair for All.

The New York World suggests that all governments agree to go back to the old wooden men-of-war, which would be as fair for one as the other. Why not abolish all navies, which would also be as fair for one as the other.—Detroit Free Press.

Sharks Devouring Crabs.

Sharks are accused of causing the great scarcity of soft crabs in the waters of the Chesapeake bay this summer. They are unusually numerous and bold, and may be seen any day spouting on the flats exploring the muddy grass with their blunt noses.

THE TYPICAL FRENCH WOMAN.

Max O'Rell Writes Rarily Concerning Her Home Life—Peasantry.

The French woman has a genius for cookery, and is thoroughly awake to the fact that it is good policy in married life to see that her husband dines well. The politics of matrimony is a science inborn in our women. Let a French woman be rich or poor—the mistress of a mansion in the Champs Elysees or of a poor fifth floor little flat at Montmartre or Batignolles—she has always the charm of femininity. She is always smart, always alert, and has a little fluttering, bustling way with her that is bound to keep awake your interest in all she does. She may be sometimes a little affected, but she is never vulgar. On Sundays and holidays she dresses still a little more elegantly than usual, but she never appears to be in Sunday clothes. The middle class French woman is ladylike, not only in her dress, but in her speech. You will never see her loaded with cheap jewelry, this great stamp of vulgarity, and when she speaks to you you cannot guess whether she is the wife of a gentleman or of a small tradesman.

I have often heard French women called frivolous. But this is the height of absurdity. If frivolity consists in trying to remain young and attractive as long as possible then the French bourgeois is frivolous. If, again, frivolity consists in making a home cheerful and gay and preventing a husband from being absorbed by the cares of business, then she is frivolous. If this woman were frivolous how could you explain the adoration for the mother which, even to the lowest of the low, you find in French children? How could this be unless she were the example of all domestic virtues? If a Frenchman of 40 would hesitate to take an important step in life without first consulting his mother, surely it must be that he recognizes in her a wise guide. It would be no mere naivete on my part to dwell longer on the absurd charge of frivolity. Take now the shopkeeping classes. There you will see the wife the active partner of her husband. Behold them both as the commercial traveler displays his goods on the counter. She is not a mere housekeeper, with or without wages; she is a partner, not merely a sleeping partner. This not only enables her, if she happens to become a widow, to carry on a business without her husband, but to be independent and bring up her children. She has not to obtain her living on her husband's death, to become a working housekeeper or a nurse; she is the mistress of her own house as before, and now the head of the firm.

You cannot obtain a perfect notion of French industry unless you pay a visit to our peasantry. I must say that now the woman ceases to be attractive. She does not even attempt to look so. Sunburnt, hale and hearty, behold her, dear English tourist, that is the fortune of France. She does not wear fringes on her forehead, I will admit; she does not wear flounces on a second hand skirt, or a hat with flowers and feathers, and she totally ignores one franc diamonds. She has a coarse serge gown on and simple snowy cap. She is clean and tidy and the personification of industry. I do not doubt, however, that, thanks to the blessings of gratuitous and compulsory education, the time will soon come when she will want to imitate the ladies of the town in her habits and dress, and that her sons will despise the dear land where they were born and will all want to be clerks and swagger in town with high stand up collars, tight trousers and sticks. Thank goodness, this spectacle is not yet to be seen in France.

This good, hard working, thrifty woman is the backbone of the country. The amount of work she can get through is simply prodigious. You will always see her busy, either working in her field, selling the products of her little farm in the marketplace of the nearest town or engaged about her little household. She is not attractive, but she is the picture of health and contentment. Shares or bonds may go up or down without disturbing her peace; she holds none. She trusts her savings to nobody. Bankers, she thinks, company directors and stock brokers may be very respectable persons, but when the old stocking is swollen with five franc pieces she rounds off her little family domain and buys another field, something she is quite sure to find in its place when she wakes up in the morning.

Let me give you an example of her frugality, and allow me to take it from a personal recollection. My mother has a housemaid who has been with her twenty-five years. Not long ago, while in France, I took aside this old servant. "I know how devoted you have been to my mother," I said to her. "You are not strong, and I dare say you will not wish to go into service again, but make yourself easy about this. If anything should happen to my mother, I shall see that you are comfortable for the rest of your life. But," I said, inquiringly, "I have no doubt you have something of your own by this time?" Imagine my surprise when I heard her tell me she had saved over 10,000 francs (about $2,000), all well invested, including one share in the Suez Canal company.—Max O'Rell in Philadelphia Press.

Henry Ward Beecher's Sayings.

The Literary News offered prizes for the best approved quotations from the writings of Henry Ward Beecher. Seventy-three lists were sent in, and the following six selections received the highest number of votes, viz:

Of all the battles there are none like the unrecorded battles of the soul.

Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made and forgot to put a soul into.

If a man is fit to go higher, he will show it by being faithful where he is.

Books outlive empires. They fly without wings, walk without feet; houses of supply are they that without money or price feed men suffering from soul hunger, leaves that increase as they are broken, and after feeding thousands are ready for thousands more.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten the cause.

God did not make men perfect. He made them pilgrims after perfection.

Tea, Coffee and Chocolate.

The predilection for tea over coffee or chocolate by the British public is shown by the report of the Coffee Tavern company, which is contained in the report just published of the royal commission for the Colonial and Indian exhibition. The company sold during the exhibition 559,000 cups of tea, 135,000 cups of coffee and 56,000 cups of chocolate.—Chicago News.

The Colored Twins.

A colored woman called her twins Truth and Falsehood. When asked why she did so she answered: "Well, sah, Truth never needs no quietin'. He jes' lays down whar yo' put him an' goes right ter sleep. But dat dar Fausehud's allers a-startin' up jes' when yo' tho't yo' had got him fer sleep."—The Epoch.

—The trunk road from the Chilliwhack bridge to Mrs. Evan's, a distance of two miles, is to be gravelled immediately. This is rather late in the season to make roads and expect the work to be well done, says the Columbian. But Honest John must keep his promise, no matter who suffers.

—Chronic catarrh usually indicates a scrofulous condition of the system, and should be treated, like chronic ulcers and eruptions, through the blood. This disease has been cured, in hundreds of cases, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Price $1. Six bottles, $5.

—Complaints reach us as to the unnecessary delay in carrying mail matter from the Sound to Victoria, as well as the tediousness in telegraphy. Often it has happened that passengers have reached Victoria ahead of either telegraph despatches or mail matter. What becomes of our boasted rapid transmission of telegraph and mail matter?

A Busy Time Ahead.

It is stated that the Chilliwhack and Sumas farmers are hard at work threshing and winding up farming operations for the year. Not more than half the threshing has been accomplished so far, and not more than half of the produce have been marketed. It is expected the steamers will be kept busy for some time yet bringing the balance of the crop to market. Prices are now good and farmers should not miss the chance of realizing on their products whilst prices are high.

The Great Cryptogram.

This long expected book, about which so much interest centers among students, is now offered to subscribers in Victoria by Major Downie. The author asserts that he has found the so-called Shakespeare plays a cipher story, curiously infolded in the text, and that the author is thereby shown to have been Bacon and not Shakespeare. The book is very handsomely gotten up, and will undoubtedly have a very large sale. Major Downie will call upon our citizens during the next few weeks, and we bespeak for him a liberal patronage.

Excessive Punishment.

About a dozen of the middies on the flag ship exceeded their leave of absence on Saturday evening by about ten minutes, and were subjected to a terrible punishment in consequence. The commanding officer issued the edict that the culprits should remain on the ship for a period of ten days, more or less, and as the time included the evening of the Lieut.-Governor's ball, the feelings of the "prisoners" can better be imagined than described. With characteristic enterprise the middies had engaged their partners for all the waltzes on the programme. The disappointment of the young ladies was very great.

MACDONALDS TREASON.

An Ottawa Journal on Macdonald, Turner & Co.

The Ottawa Free Press says: The publication of the letter given by Senator Macdonald, Mr. Turner of the British Columbia government, and others to Rev. Mr. Duncan, of Metlakahila fame, on the departure of the latter for Washington, has caused quite a sensation in the Pacific province. So far Messrs. Macdonald, Turner and the others have not attempted any explanation or defence of their conduct, and a Victoria paper says the people are astounded to find that a member of the provincial cabinet and a senator of the Dominion have been guilty of treason against the British realm. Senator Macdonald and Mr. Turner have in a letter overe their signatures declared that some hundreds of English subjects have had to "seek a refuge from grievous wrongs, and hope to find it under the American flag", rather than submit to what these honorable gentlemen call "the intolerable stings of religious greed and interference;" and further they compare the empire of Her Majesty the Queen of England disadvantageously with the republic of the United States, by speaking of the republic most invidiously and offensively as "the land of the free." But really if the people of British Columbia were acquainted with the history of Canada proper they would not evince any surprise at the conduct of their Tory Senator. The duty of a Tory is to follow his leader, and the leader of the government in the Senate is Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, one of the signers of the annexation manifesto of 1849. Why should Senator Macdonald be expected to be more loyal than his new party leader? The Diocesan and Parish Magazine, published at Victoria, apparently the organ of the Church of England in British Columbia, is particularly severe on Senator Macdonald for encouraging and aiding Mr. Duncan in his scheme to take the Metlakahtla Indians out of Canada. It charges the Senator with resorting to the unpatriotic course of recommending a traitor to American sympathy, with the view of raising money to transport our British Indians to a foreign land, and expresses regret that the Indian Department and the Provincial Government did not protect these Indians from such evil influences.

THE AMERICAN SEALERS.

The Owners will Put Their Vessels Under a Foreign Flag.

J. C. Nixon, one of the owners of the American sealing schooner Allie I. Algar, which was seized for catching seals in Behring Sea, said in an interview:

"I think Captain Jacobs was a little premature when he telegraphed to Secretary Bayard: 'You have given the Atlantic to the Canadians, we will hold the Pacific for Gloucester.' My impression is that when Captain Jacobs arrives he will find that the Secretary has given the Pacific to Canada also.

UNDER THE BRITISH FLAG.

Our schooner, the Allie I. Algar, was seized without cause, when on her way home from a successful season's work in northern waters, and the only excuse the court made for condemning her was that the captain last year, when in another vessel, had been arrested for killing female seals. We have sent the bonds to Alaska for the release of the schooner, and before sending her out next year, unless we can have some assurance that our government will afford us protection in our lawful pursuits, we will place her under the British flag.

HAVE THE SKINS BEEN STOLEN?

At the time the schooner was sold, the skins were taken out of her by the cutter and stored along with the others in a storehouse in Onualaska. When it was deemed advisable to bring the skins to Sitka the officers, instead of sending a government vessel for them, or chartering one of the splendid American schooners in port to bring them down, preferred to give the charter to one of the seized British schooners, paying her $1500 for the job. That was eight weeks ago, and she has not returned yet. Two weeks would have been ample time for her to make the trip.

Here Mr. Nixon picked up the Sunday Oregonian, and pointed out the following special dispatch from San Francisco: "From information received here from northern Alaska it is thought that the British steam schooner Grace, which was chartered by the American Government for a lump sum to go to Onualaska to bring skins taken from the seized sealers and warehoused there, to Sitka, will never return. Nothing has been heard of her of late, and it is surmised there that the captain of the Grace, who is known as a devil-may-care fellow, might cache the skins at some convenient place, or run them ashore somewhere on the Vancouver coast, and so take a haul of at least $100,000. Great surprise is expressed here that when there were so many American schooners in port one of them was not chartered."

HIS THEORY.

In speaking of this despatch Mr. Nixon said: "It would be very remarkable if the captain of the Grace should return to Alaska. He has everything to lose and nothing to gain. His vessel was seized with the rest, and if she goes back into the jurisdiction of the Alaskan courts she will probably be condemned and sold with the balance. It would be the most natural thing on earth for him to get away with $100,000 worth of property and at the same time remove his vessel from the clutches of the courts. So far as I am concerned I do not believe we will ever recover one of our skins.

Mr. Nixon is considerably astray in respect to the Grace's captain and the probability of running away with the skins. The Grace was in charge of one of the U. S. officers and has returned to Sitka.

Nuggets Galore.

Mr. James Gray, manager for the Ophir Bed-Rock Flume Company, operating in the Big Bend of the Columbia, North of Revelstoke, arrived in the city last night. He brought down a considerable quantity of gold in nuggets, which can be examined at the office of Mr. E. M. Johnson, Government street, where about 70 ounces of as pretty-looking gold as eves eye feasted, as is to be seen, ranging in value from 25c up to $10 and $15. There can be no question as to the value of these "yellow beauties," nor can the fact be disputed that gold is found and in considerable quantities on the claim this enterprising company is working in the distant Big Bend country. The camp is now an established concern and doing well, a matter as satisfactory to the people of the province at large as it is to the gentlemen who staked their capital, risked their lives and time in developing the territory. When the wash-up for the season takes place it is believed the result will astonish every one. It is feared that will not take place until next spring in consequence of the great sot page in the ground. Mr. Day is very sanguine as to the future outcome of the territory. He reports about eight inches of snow and a couple of cold nights, but warm weather again set in and the snow was disappearing when he left.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wood, Toronto, and Mr. Pullinger, are at Beechbella.

The Rev. J. Hall arrived from the mainland on Wednesday night.

Mr. Carson Woods, a prominent merchant and a leading citizen of Sydney, N.S.W., is a guest at the Clarence.

Messrs. S. Perry Mills, A. Rossi and R. Collister were passengers yesterday from the mainland.

Mr. S. P. Weston, of the Portland Sunday Mercury, is in the city on matters connected with that journal.

Dr. Milne returned last night from the mainland where he had been attending the medical council meeting last Tuesday.

Admiral Sir M. Culme-Seymour, accompanied by his Secretary, Mr. Robinson, and Flag Lieut. Garforth, will leave for England next week.

Messrs. T. B. Ladner, Ladner's Landing; P. C. Smith, Montreal; Cassill Barlow, C. Butler, Portland; J. Tod, Tacoma; D. E. Moran, New York, are stopping at the Driard.

Mr. C. Friedman, with Messrs. C. Strouss & Co., leaves for an extended trip to the east, Britain and the Continent to-morrow. He expects to be absent several months. Mr. Friedman will be missed by his numerous friends, who join in the wish that his trip may be a pleasant as well as a profitable one.

Mr. J. S. Shopland lately of Foul Bay, near this city, but now of Maple Bay, Cowichan district, is in the city to-day. He appears to be well pleased with the change he made in his place of residence. Mrs. Shopland, with her young son, is visiting her friends near Goderich, Ont., where she will remain till spring.

The Result of Bungling.

By last night's steamer from Vancouver the China-Japan mail for this city and all points south reached the Victoria office, in exactly thirty-seven hours after the Parthia had reached the Royal Roads, one and a half miles from the Victoria post office. We respectfully submit that this is a gross piece of bungling, and whoever is responsible therefore must be a mallet-head of the first magnitude. The public of Victoria care little who it is. They will not rest satisfied until an investigation into the whole facts is held, so that the blame can be traced to its source and the culprit exposed as he should be. But the result of such stupidity goes farther than the Victoria office. All the mail matter for the Sound and southeastern points, in consequence of this extremely foolish arrangement, will reach its destination fully two days later than would have been the case had the bags been landed here on Tuesday morning as they should have been. We hear a good deal just now about rapid transit, quick passages and unprecedented time. If many such instances as that under notice occur we fear the popularity of the Canadian route will wane as rapidly as it arose. This is the age of steam and electricity, demanding the removal of all obstacles in the way of rapid movements. Again we repeat the fault is one which lies at the door of the post office department at Ottawa, which is, if reports be true, controlled by a bungler. Our city members should investigate the matter and lodge their remonstrances with the government. We are satisfied the C. P. R. officials at Montreal are not aware of the manner in which their interests here are being trifled with in this mail matter affair. If they are aware of the facts, then they are indeed made of very different material to what we have hitherto believed constituted their board of management. Trifling with so important a matter will no longer be tolerated. The time for action has arrived. Let the full facts be laid before the Imperial and Dominion Governments, as well as the C. P. R. management, and then we may look for the difficulty being speedily remedied. We do not attach any blame to the postoffice officials in this province for the unbusiness like manner in which the whole affair has been managed. The blame must rest on other shoulders.

INSUBORDINATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Of all the mean creatures that infest the earth, the meanest is the man who endeavors to sow seeds of distrust and discord in families or communities. Somebody writing in Tuesday's Colonist over the very inappropriate signature of "Parental," has been guilty of a despicable act of this kind. He has been endeavoring to stir up strife between our public school teachers and trustees by suggesting to the latter, that the teachers, in making a presentation to Mr. Muir the other day, were guilty of insubordination for which they, or some of them, should be dismissed, publicly reprimanded, etc. Now where is the insubordination? Teachers who have been toiling side by side for years, present a token of respect to one of their number who is leaving—to one who, whatever may be thought of his escapade with the trustees at the close of his term of office, has all along been highly respected and who has done good, solid work. It requires a good deal of malicious ingenuity to twist that simple token of friendship into an act of insubordination or disrespect to constituted authority.

Backbiters and mischief-makers are usually not very particular in keeping to the truth; so "Parental" states that some of the divisions of the school were on the day of the presentation dismissed before the proper time, which is not true. So by means of misconstruction and falsehood he wishes to make trouble. He would apparently like to see imported into our schools the Russian system of terrorism and espionage. If the trustees were foolish enough to listen to his advice they would drive every spirited, efficient teacher from the school and they would soon find themselves surrounded by cringing, useless sycophants.

Is it true that only two out of all the graduates of the province have recently applied for the principalship of our high school? If so, it suggests that the position is considered by the profession a very desirable one. It is possible that the trustees have already been making things needlessly unpleasant for the teachers, and that what is now required on their part in the interests of education is not more interference with the trustees but less. At any rate it is to be hoped that they will have more sense than to listen to the suggestion of "Parental," which is at once wicked and stupid.

Nov. 3rd, 1887. CAUTION.

At Half-Mast.

Enquiry is made why the flag is at half-mast to-day at the U. S. Consulate. It is because instructions have just been received by consular letter from the Department of State that E. B. Washburne, of Galena, Illinois, was for years, and especially during the late civil strife in the U. S., a prominent political factor. He was very active and an extremist during the war, a Republican of the most unadulterated stripe, an economist withal. He was two years chairman of the committee of the house on appropriations. He was Grant's first Secretary of State, but resigned soon to go to France as minister, because of bad health. He was prominent in the protection of the Germans in Paris during the days of the Commune. Three brothers of their were in Congress at the same time.

CANADIAN NEWS.

HEAVY FAILURE.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 3.—The proprietors of the Hespeler woolen mills have failed; liabilities $20,000; assets nomally the same.

THE NEW ADMIRAL.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Admiral Heneage and Lieutenant Thorne, R. N., left for Victoria, B. C., to-day. The admiral goes to hoist his flag on the Swiftsure, which is the new flagship of the Pacific squadron. In an interview he said one of his official acts was to visit Alaskan waters and to protect British interests there, which sadly need looking after. He would not, he said, allow a British vessel to be molested outside of the three-mile limit, no matter who attempted it. He understands that recent seizures in Alaskan waters will form a part of the fisheries inquiry. He will make a special report to the British postoffice department on the Canadian Pacific Railway, as an imperial route to the east. The Admiral was until last month in command of the Channel squadron.

THE GLOBE ON CHAMBERLAIN.

TORONTO, Nov. 3.—The Globe, the leading Liberal organ of Canada, again refers to Chamberlain and in a strongly worded editorial to-day says: "Let British journals rub their eyes again and wake up to the necessities of the situation. Chamberlain must be recalled. An imperative demand is required, and Canadians are entitled to employ it. He must be recalled. Let British politicians understand their own interests are hugely staked on the result of the impending negotiations. Should the commissioners fail to reach a settlement or should the Senate make an agreement, nothing can be more certain than war will follow between Great Britain and the United States, which can be avoided only by Great Britain's abandoning Canada in a way that will forever disgrace the British name.

AMERICAN NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Governor Swineford's friends continue to be greatly exercised over the publication of "See-Saw," the new novel in which the governor of Alaska is depicted with so free a pencil, to which reference has already been made in these despatches. Miss Cleveland, authoress of the book, has just received notification from her Detroit publishers that Governor Swineford's friends had offered them $10,000 to suppress the book. To this Miss Cleveland telegraphed the following reply: "If 'See-Saw' is not kept on sale my attorney will institute proceedings against you for $10,000 for copyright and $50,000 for damages." The book has created so much of a sensation in Detroit, and its sale is expected to be so large throughout the state, that it will probably result in securing to Miss Cleveland, who is a niece of President Cleveland, a sum of money sufficient to maintain her in comfort for the rest of her life.

CASE OF MISREPRESENTATION.

SEATTLE, Nov. 1.—A number of damaging reports have recently been telegraphed in San Francisco papers from Port Townsend concerning ex-Inspector Gardner, of the customs service. It has been stated that Gardner was compelled to leave the customs service on account of a crooked transaction, and that his whereabouts is unknown. Mr. Gardner's friends here pronounce these reports entirely without foundation. He is now in the East, but will return in a few weeks, and there has never been the slightest uncertainty concerning his whereabouts.
